

REVISED COACH EDUCATION PATHWAY FAQs

What will the FAW Coach Education pathway look like from 1st July 2025?

For more information about courses detailed in the above pathway please visit: <http://lms.faw.cymru/>

I have an FAW Football Leaders Award. Where does that sit in the pathway? What happens when it expires?

If you have previously completed the FAW Football Leaders Award, it will continue to be recognised as our entry-level qualification. The content will remain the same; only the title will be rebranded to FAW Introduction to Coaching Football. A certificate for the FAW Football Leaders Award will still be accepted as part of the FAW Club Accreditation criteria. Upon revalidation of this award, a new certificate will be issued, bearing the title FAW Introduction to Coaching Football.

I have an FAW Goalkeepers Award. Where does that sit in the pathway? What happens when it expires?

I have an FAW C Certificate. Where does that sit in the pathway? What happens when it expires?

Effective 1st July 2025, the FAW C Certificate will be removed from the coach education pathway. However, individuals who have previously obtained the FAW C Certificate will continue to have their qualification recognised by the FAW. It will be positioned above the new FAW/UEFA Grassroots Leaders Award and below the FAW/UEFA C Licence. We strongly recommend that all FAW C Certificate holders pursue the conversion of their qualification to the FAW/UEFA C Licence. To facilitate this, a dedicated course has been created; further details can be accessed via the following link: <https://lms.faw.cymru/courses/faw-uefa-c-licence>. Should you choose not to undertake the conversion, upon renewal, you will be issued a new certificate that will again bear the title FAW C Certificate.

I understand the FAW/UEFA C Licence has an assessment. What happens if I fail?

Yes, all UEFA licence courses have mandatory assessments to determine if candidates have passed or failed the course. If you fail the course, you are eligible for two further reassessment opportunities.

I have previously attended the FAW Safeguarding Award, which was delivered by a tutor over a webinar. Is this still recognised?

If a coach or safeguarding officer has previously completed the FAW Safeguarding Award, it will continue to be recognised as our entry-level qualification. Additionally, it will remain acceptable as part of the prerequisite requirements for eligibility to undertake the FAW/UEFA Grassroots Leaders Award.

Is there any funding available to access courses?

Some funding streams are available for coaches/clubs to access grassroots courses. This includes: Sport Wales BEACTIVE, CHASE & FAW Coach Diversity programme

Can I access FAW/UEFA courses from outside Wales?

Anyone is welcome to apply to access our courses. Whilst our entry-level qualifications are exclusively offered online, all other courses incorporate in-person components and are conducted in Wales.

Can I request a course to be held at my Club?

The FAW/UEFA Grassroots Leaders Award can be held at club locations provided there are a minimum of 16 candidates. For further information, please contact coacheducation@faw.cymru. All other courses are delivered on a regional basis.

I have heard that certain roles allow for the exemption of an FAW Football Emergency Aid Award. Is this true?

Individuals with the following roles who work within the Healthcare profession, with up-to-date training, will be determined as an appropriately qualified first aid provider without completing the FAW Football Emergency Aid (FEA) course: Nurse (RGN), Physiotherapist (HCPC), Doctor (GMC), Paramedic (HCPC), First Aid/BLS/ALS Tutor, Sports Therapist/Rehabilitator, Military Combat Medical Technician (CMT), A recognised HSE First Aid for Sport Course (such as 'British Red Cross First Aid for Sport course or St John's Ambulance Sports First Aid training course). First Aid Qualifications Not Accepted: First Aid at Work, Emergency First Aid at Work, First aid for adults, First Aid for baby and child.

Does the FAW offer any courses to support coaches working with Disabled Footballers?

We want to make the game as inclusive as possible, and we have created a new module entitled 'Football for everyone', which is part of the FAW Introduction to Coaching Football Award, replacing the standalone award. This module aims to provide all coaches with advice and guidance on how to support all players within a practice. Additional education content has been created as part of our Grassroots CPD programme and is available on Coach Cymru.

Does the FAW offer any courses to support Futsal or Walking Football?

Futsal and Walking Football education content has been created as part of our Grassroots CPD programme and is available on Coach Cymru.

Are there more advanced first aid courses?

Level 2 First Responder in Sport qualification

The FAW Level 2 First Responder for Sports (FRS) course aims to provide the candidate to build upon the knowledge and content of the FAW Football Emergency Aid course. It aims to provide more thorough knowledge and understanding for First Aiders who will be the first on the scene at any First Aid incident. It will provide further learning for those who are within a sport or leisure environment for dealing with medical emergencies. It will also provide excellent underpinning knowledge for when a First Aider may be supporting a Health Care Professional. For example, coaches, parents or volunteers assisting a pitch side emergency practitioner.
